7. Major contributions: (Max. 100 words): The candidate has about 37 years of experience in the field of Project Monitoring work. He has engaged for Implementation of the process of Project Costing, Budgeting and Monitoring work. Project Monitoring is very essential for smooth functioning of research work in a research organization. Various types of information related to projects were furnished to the Management Council, Research Council, CSIR-CIMFR Annual Report, Project Review Meeting i.e. list of projects taken up, projects completed, projects in-hand, external cash-flow, etc. The project monitoring work is considered to be an integral part of R&D work for effective output of research work and equally important for a research organization. Monitoring is the continuous assessment of Project Implementation in relation to agreed time schedule and of the use of inputs, infrastructure, and services by project beneficiaries. Monitoring provides continuous feedback on implementation. Project evaluation is the periodic assessment of a project relevance, performance, efficiency and impact (both expected and anticipated in relation to the stated objectives) The applicant is associated to the project monitoring of R&D projects being implemented by CSIR-CIMFR. His performance might be reflected in terms of continuous regular back-ground support to scientists involved in the execution of the project as well as amount of External Cash Flow (ECF) from externally funded projects of the Laboratory. Therefore, it may be concluded that the contribution of the applicant is most significant for effective functioning of Project Monitoring & Evaluation (PME) in particular and CSIR-CIMFR in general.
